

Florence Emily Stewart

February 13, 1936 - December 14, 2018

Florence Emily Stewart, affectionately known as “Flossie”, by family and friends, departed this life on December 14th, 2018 at the age of 82. Florence was born in Philadelphia on February 13th, 1936; one of nine children born to James and Daisy Lawyer, who left Thomasville, Georgia by horse and buggy seeking a better life in Philadelphia, PA.

Florence married Russell Stewart early in life and they had four children; Gregory, Deborah, Stephen, and Darrell. Being a military wife, she traveled to several cities but ultimately settled back in Philadelphia. As a single parent, Florence was a hard worker. She quickly advanced to a managerial position at Budget Uniform, which she held for more than 30 years, and received many bonuses and awards for her outstanding service.

Flossie was passionate about family get-togethers and holiday dinners. She loved to cook and entertain. Her sister Mildred lived next door and the two of them would cook unforgettable meals full of love. We can all remember Sunday morning breakfasts, complete with homemade biscuits and Frank Sinatra. But most of all she loved her children and grandchildren. After suffering a stroke Florence was able to remain in her home due to the loving care of her grand-daughter Amanda Stewart-Conway, husband Marshall Conway and their daughter Jenice.

Florence is survived by her sister Esther Newsome, her children, Gregory, Deborah Johnson (Ollie), Stephan (Patricia), and Darrell (Crystal). Seventeen grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, a host of nieces, nephews, and a loving community of other relatives & friends.
